TICKETS BEING SOLD FOR ENTERTAINMENT COURSE PROGRAM

Seat Reservations May Be Obtained Friday, Oct. 17, at Cushman's.

BYRD'S LECTURE NOT INCLUDED IN COURSE

Tickets Placed on Sale by Students Beginning Yesterday.

Tickets for the entertainment course were placed on sale yesterday morning after chapel. Over thirty students, members of both the Men's and Women's college, are selling tickets and will be canvassing the dormitories and the town during the coming week.

Full course tickets which entitle the holder to a reserve seat for every performance are being sold for $6.00. Half course tickets are $4.00 and entitle the holder to attend any three of the five entertainments given. Single admission tickets, $1.50 each, are placed on sale a week preceding each program and may be obtained at Cushman's store where course tickets are also on sale.

Reservation of seats on the full course tickets may be made at Cushman's store Friday, October 17. Seats reserved on the full course tickets are good for every performance and cannot be changed. Persons holding half course tickets, however, must make reservations for each separate performance and may make the reservations a week in advance of the entertainment at Cushman's store.

Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd has been secured by the committee to give a lecture February 13. This lecture will not be included in the entertainment course. Tickets will be placed on sale the first week in February and may be obtained at Cushman's.

Students selling tickets must turn in money and unsold tickets Wednesday, October 15. Further announcement as to time and place will be made in chapel.

Material for Fall Issue of Saxonian Due Oct. 15

Jilda Pacheco '31, editor-in-chief of the Saxonian, undergraduate literary quarterly of the college, announces that all copy intended for the annual fall issue must be handed in to some member of the board not later than October 15.

Because of the graduation of several of the most outstanding contributors to the magazine, the editors find themselves faced with the difficulty of securing new talent to write for the Saxonian.

For this reason all students interested in literary work, even if they have not been active in the field before, are urged to hand contributions in to members of the board. Short stories, essays, and poems are needed. All material submitted will receive careful consideration by the editors.

Pi Delta Epsilon Holds Initiation and Elections

Two new members were initiated into Pi Delta Epsilon, national honorary journalism fraternity, at a meeting held at the D. U. house Sunday evening. Kirkland Sloper '32, and Charles A. Kennedy '31, are the new initiates.

Richard H. Amerman '31, was elected chairman of the Literati Ball, the annual publications dance which will be held later in the college year.

Gerald E. Thayer '31, was selected as the representative of the college publications in the student council.

UNIVERSAL GOD BASIS OF RELIGIOUS APPEAL

Booth Declares We Must Realize Christ as a Powerful Personality in Life.

Bishop Samuel Booth of the Episcopal church was the speaker at Sunday vespers. In his short talk he stressed the universality of the personality of Christ.

He said in part: "In our grandfather's day, religion was concerned with the destiny of man. Heaven and hell were considered to a great extent. Today such allusions do not affect us in the least.

"In our parents' time, evolution was the great subject of conversation. The pendulum of Christian thought swung as far back as it had before swung to the future. Today we are in between. We are concerned with the present. We have no regard for the past or the future. We separate problems of destiny from our problems of moral life. Christian religion has a peculiar genius which we miss. It lies in the fact that the great concepts in separate problems have one ultimate answer: Jesus Christ, author and finisher of faith, is the same yesterday, today and tomorrow. His is a personality whose completeness is great; He does not get broken into separate pieces. He is interested in morals, destiny and light,—the makings of the soul. Christian religion demands that we live in the realm of spirit, in the spirit, by the spirit, and for the spirit. We must look to Christ who is the answer to the great problems of the universe.

"The Bible begins with the conception of God's creation of the earth, and ultimately the personality of Christ is reproduced through the spirit. His spiritual potentiality forced all to listen,—forced them to labor for the great Coming,—the coming of consideration for all. Jesus, life of the Church, inspired this thought.

"There is more talk today of religion than ever before, but the people do not know what they are before, but the people do not know what they are talking about. Religion is the dynamic power of a great spiritual light. The Holy Spirit is ready to come to those who want it, and are willing to allow the Spirit to dominate them. When we are willing to permit the Spirit to dominate us, it will come. We must have the courage to say, 'I believe, and therefore I have spoken.' We must have more definitely sure convictions and dare to say our prayers and to attend church before all. We must give up our irresponsibility before God.

"The business of Christian life is to share it with someone. 'I am here because I believe, and therefore I speak.' I believe in the reconstruction of men and in world peace when we are all seeking the same relation with God and

CAMPUS NOTICE

Several of the program cards handed in by members of the class of 1934 who are trying out for the CAMPUS editorial staff had no names signed to them.

Freshmen try-outs should examine the list of competitors printed elsewhere in this issue, and any person whose name is omitted should hand in a new card at once.

Middlebury Students are from Many States

Fourteen states and two foreign countries are represented this year in the geographical representation of students enrolled at Middlebury College.

New York state leads with 166 students, and is closely followed by Massachusetts with 152 and Vermont with 150. The remaining eleven states show the following number registered: Connecticut, 58; New Jersey, 43; New Hampshire, 27; Pennsylvania, 9; Maine, 5; Rhode Island, 4; District of Columbia, 3; Virginia, 1; Illinois, 1; and Iowa, 1. The two countries outside of the United States which are represented are Canada and France, each of whom show one student. Ohio 3

In comparison with last year the number of states represented is slightly lower; as at this time last fall Wisconsin, Indiana, and Georgia showed students enrolled. Four foreign countries, Chile, China, Germany, and Mexico, were represented last year. Total 625

PHOTOGRAPHY WORK WILL BEGIN SUNDAY

Individual and Group Pictures for 1932 Kaleidoscope to Be Taken Next Week.

All group and individual pictures for the 1932 Kaleidoscope will be taken early next week according to the final arrangements made with Warren Kay Vantine studios of Boston.

The group photographer will be in Middlebury Sunday ,at which time all fraternity and organization pictures will be taken. Mr. Vantine will personally be in charge of the individual portraits of the members of the junior class and the faculty which will be taken Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Photography Editors, William Leggett and Nina Barber are drawing up a schedule for the four days. This will be posted before 5 P. M. Friday on the Old Chapel bulletin board. Any changes which are absolutely necessary may be made by notifying Mr. Leggett at the Alpha Sigma Phi house Saturday. The editors hope that when the schedule is presented, few changes will have to be made, as revisions involve many complications.

It will be essential that all appointments be kept promptly in order that the work may continue smoothly. If a group or individual delays the schedule, it will be necessary to shorten the allotted time for that sitting.

Members of the junior class are reminded that a deposit of three dollars is necessary at the time the pictures are taken. When the individual later makes purchases this three dollars is deducted from his bill. This deposit has been the prevailing custom here for several years and the photographer insists upon its continuance.

Of course there will be no charge for the faculty, and it is hoped that they will cooperate by keeping the appointments which they make.

The schedule for the group photography work for Sunday has been completed by William Leggett. The fraternity and sorority pictures will be taken in the morning and such organizations as have already determined their personnel will be photographed in the afternoon. All morning dates will be kept in front of Mead Memorial Chapel. The inside group pictures which includes all other organizations, will be taken in the gymnasium. All individual sittings on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday will be in Hepburn Social Hall.

Members of the faculty who desire transportation to and from Hepburn for their individual sittings should call

MIDDLEBURY BOWS TO STRONG PURPLE TEAM; SCORE 26-0

Strongest Williams Eleven in Years Subdues Panther.

VICTORS OUTWEIGH BLUE AND WHITE

Williams Power Shows Itself Early in Game; Score 12-0 at Half.

Coach Beck's Middlebury grid warriors met with their second reverse of the season Saturday at Williamstown when the powerful Williams team came out on top of a 26-0 score. The Panther eleven put up a good battle, but weight and experience gave the Purple a decided edge and enabled them to run up a good score.

The Williams team which faced Middlebury Saturday was practically the same one that defeated the Panther last season. First string end and guard were all that graduated last June and so it was a veteran team which Beck's warriors had to compete against. This fact combined with a decisive weight advantage did much to bring about the downfall of the Blue and White.

Throughout the first half, the game was tinged with a decided Purple tint. Scores were rung up by the Williams team in both of the first two periods. Fighting hard, the Middlebury team made the Williams backs work for every inch of ground gained, but the power of the attack was too much and produced two touchdowns to make the score read 12 to 0 at half time.

Middlebury fought back hard in the last two cantos and on two occasions came near scoring, but passes went wrong at each juncture and enabled the Williams team to keep its goal line uncrossed.

Two more scores were rung up by the Purple in the last half, one touchdown coming in each period. The tally in the third period was a result of a steady advance while the final score was made by R. Markowski who intercepted a Blue pass and raced 65 yards to cross the Middlebury goal. The line-up:

Williams (26)		Middlebury (0)
Foehl	L.E.	Hinman
Thayer	L.T.	Perry
Lobo	L.G.	Duffany
Stevens	C.	Nelson
Reid	R.G.	Brown
Schwartz	R.T.	McLean
Kipp	R.E.	Thrasher
Fowle	Q.B.	E. Markowski
Good	L.H.	Hardy
Tuttle	R.H.	Bakeman
Berry	F.B.	Hartrey

Score by Periods:

Williams	6	6	7	7	—26

Touchdowns—Fowle 2, R. Markowski, Tuttle. Points after touchdowns—Fowle, R. Markowski.

Substitutions—Williams: Wood for Thayer, Fox for Lobo, Ripple for Stevens, Hulse for Reid, Miller for Schwartz, Senn for Good, Bilder for Senn, Correale for Berry, R. Markowski for Correale, Eynow for Tuttle. Middlebury: Whitman for Duffany, Johnson for Brown, Riccio for Whitman, Foote for E. Markowski, Bullukian for Bakeman, Hoyle for Foote, Yeomans for Hardy.

Referee—Bankart, of Dartmouth. Umpire—Ginsberg, of Fordham. Linesman—Pickens, of Dartmouth. Time of periods—12 minutes.

Dean's Office Announcement.

The office of the Dean of Men announces that during the absence of Dean Hazeltine all work of the undergraduate activities fund will be taken care of by Miss MacDonald.

ON BEING A COLLEGE PROFESSOR.

"How many students are there at your college?"

"Oh, about one in every ten."

While the above bit of humor may be considered an indictment of general student indifference, it also implies a number of reflections on professorial methods. In brief, it illustrates the point that although you can lead a man to college, you cannot always make him think. Which brings in its train the further point: how can a student's mind be truly educated?

Upon some deliberation it can be said that, generally speaking, there are two ways of delivering an education: by acquainting students with knowledge in the living form of discovery; and on the other hand, by using the unanswerable dogma, textbook, and word of authority. While reason tells us that the first mentioned method is far superior, nevertheless it appears that college faculties employ both in varying proportion.

A word on the dagmatic approach to knowledge. The intellectual servitude from which a liberal education attempts to free the individual is not so much from actual ignorance, as from slavish devotion to the word of formal authority. Superstition is a terrible handicap to the rational life, yet the dogmatic lecture inculcates just this attitude of mind. Students are constrained to become parrots to get by. A thinker, a searcher, a "student" is often anathema in such a lecture or recitation room. He 'crabs the course" and is unpopular with a certain type of instructor, whose distaste induces the class to follow his example.

The truly educated man can understand and appreciate the humorous foibles of convention, ready made recipes, and formulas for living. But such a man is never found who has passed his college days in the School of the Dogma.

Hence the logical induction presents itself. Some instructors get into a rut. Their knowledge of one field may be immense, but years of repetition have dulled their sense of the relation and integration of knowledge into verities.

From this we may gather that the endless chain of lecturing, listening, and learning is but a temporary expedient that may be worse than fruitless. For it denies the student his right to exercise whatever potentialities he may possess.

The ideal instructor, from a student's point of view, is one who can be original and entertaining, command the attention, and give important supplementary material. With such a man it is a simple matter to take notes—a greater difficulty than is generally conceived—for the student can thus detect and select ideas from rhetoric, and set down details in their relative position. A course gains continuity and intelligibility thereby. Not only is interest aroused, but also thought and discussion, thus making study simple and real.

After all, the true professorial philosophy might well find its expression in the words of Pindar: "May I still have what is beautiful and strive for what is attainable." To the instructor, his courses should be his craft, over which he should delight in continual improvement as a builder to construct an orderly arrangement of facts. Some lay the foundation, others build, others complete, until a unified structure of knowledge is erected.

It should be remembered that in all cases, the teacher is justified by his students. To a faculty is given the infinite task of cultivating the student mind. Careful and sympathetic effort can do much to produce that tribute to good teaching—an educated man.

COMMUNICATION

TO THE EDITOR OF THE CAMPUS:

On Saturday of this week a Middlebury student will sing in the Atwater Kent contest over station CKAC at Montreal from nine to ten p. m. It will be an honor to the college if the student, who must remain anonymous, meets with the favor of the radio audience. All students interested should listen to the contest and express their choice of the contestants by ballot to be sent to the radio station.

BOOKS

At this time it is usually customary to review the past literary season and to offer some prognostications (that's a million dollar word I acquired this summer) as to the new season which is slowly gathering momentum.

Undoubtedly, the most outstanding event of last year was the attempt of several publishing houses to offer new novels written by the pseudosophisticattomary two or two-fifty. This did not work out so well as was hoped, for while the novels of well known writers sold unusually well, those by lesser known or new authors for the most part spent an uncomfortably hot summer on the bargain counters at Macy's.

Last year also saw the decline of the war novels which had been flooding the market ever since "All Quiet" became a best seller. At present, maudlin glorifications of gang life and social novels written by the pseudesophisticates, of the pseudosophiscates, and for the pseudosophisticates, seem to be holding the center of attention.

Perhaps the two outstanding events of early fall will be the publication of "On Forsyte Change" by John Glasworthy—a collection of nineteen short stories about the famous Forsyte family, and the publication of "The Collected Poems of Robert Frost". The former needs no explanation as the Forsyte family has already become the first family of modern fiction. Frost's works in a collected form may seem a bit too premature to some readers. However, it must be realized that Frost has already become an international figure since a study of his poetry (in translation of course) is required in practically all French schools today. And so, the publication of his collected works shows that this country has at last chosen to recognize one of her greatest figures in the world of modern letters.

But to get back to the offerings of this fall season. Scribners will shortly publish "The Realms of Matter' the second volume of George Santayana's series called "Realms of Being". Harcourt Brace, & Co. will bring out "Two Years" a book of vagabonding experiences by Liam O'Flaherty, and D. H. Lawrence's last novel, "The Virgin and the Gipsy" will be published by Alfred A. Knopf either late this winter or early in the spring.

There will be new novels by Arnold Bennett, Lion Feutchwanger, W. Somerset Maugham, Edith Wharton, and Martha Ostenso. There are also two biographies of Sir Walter Scott, as well as two of Voltaire, an equal number of James McNeill Whistler, one of Cosima Wagner, and some more material offering "Tolstoi in a new light". These, together with a collection of the essays of Katherine Mansfield, and the memoirs of Ernest Rhys (of Everyman's Library fame) seem to be the most outstanding books offered for the early fall trade. Of course, there will be a great many more in a few weeks for the Christmas season which is after all, not so far off.

MARGARET FULLER
by Margaret Bell
Paper Books, 50c.

Despite the antipathy of many of the more conservative publishing houses, Mr. Boni's well known paper books seem to be holding their own if one may judge by their latest book—an excellent biography of Margaret Fuller.

While Margaret Fuller is not as widely known as she was a generation and a half ago, she has left her mark on our civilization and customs, for it is she who first pleaded for sex equality. She was the inspiration for the work of Susan B. Anthony, Mrs. Pankhurst,

SHREDS AND PATCHES

We have heard dire rumors regarding the Hillcrest goldfish. It is claimed that they were doomed to an untimely death by some cruel, unthinking soul. Fortunately, it is just before senatorial elections so the perpetrator of the dastardly deed will go unscathed, as Senator Heflin is too busy to undertake a congressional investigation.

Middlebury is still pure! So far, no letters from Spain have been received which carry stamps with the interesting reproductions of some of Goya's better known oils.

Bernard Shaw still seems to be a master of the art of getting free advertising. When he refused his title last week, all the big dailies carried front page stories about it. Had he accepted he would be receiving no more publicity than James Barrie is at present.

With the passing of Jack Donahue, Broadway has lost one of its most picturesque stars. Beginning as a hoofer for a medicine show, he worked his way up through burlesque, vaudeville, and variety until in 1926 he played opposite Marilyn Miller in "Sunny". Since then he has played the lead in several productions—the most outstanding being "Rosalie"" and "Sons o' Guns" in which he was playing in Cincinnati when he suffered the breakdown which led to his death. Besides being a star in his own right, Donahue produced a number of plays among which was "Lost Sheep", a success of last season. He also helped write the book for "Princess Charming" an operetta which opens at the Imperial the tenth of this month.

Although the steam heat has not been turned on in the cemetery as yet, we notice that it is all ready becoming a popular rendezvous.

We see that Harvard has refused to permit the Valee person to attempt to popularize "Fair Harvard" and other well known songs. May one be so bold as to state that he hopes "Gamaliel Painter's Cane" will be overlooked by the boy with the adenoids.

Hint to golfers: when you dub that mashie shot on the fifth hole, refrain from profanity, take a look at the colored foliage on Bread Loaf and perhaps you'll acquire some of the hill's well-known strength. At least, the mountains are well worth looking at these days.

Then there was the freshman coed who wanted to know if that was an engagement ring on Bishop Booth's finger.

Judging from the results of Saturday's game, the boys at Williams will be wearing panther skin coats this winter instead of the costomary coon skins.

We've been waiting in vain now for many moons for somebody to steal one of the new Cord cars so we could use that gag about the Lost Cord.

With the disappearance of the subtracting machines, Middlebury's version of Monte Carlo, or the gambling hells, just ain't what she used to be.

We wish to offer our heart felt sympathy to Wesleyan university which is suffering from an attack of infantile paralysis. We trust that the worst is now past, and that life at Middletown will soon be returning to normalcy.

We note that the first program of one act plays is only about three weeks off. It is to be sincerely hoped that the local printer will discover his font of upper case type before called upon to print the programs for the production.

The excellent carrying power of the radio in South Starr is causing the library staff to consider seriously the adoption of the slogan "Music While You Work" as a drawing card. What could be more inspiring for the freshmen laboring over C. C. than the stirring tune of "Bye Bye Blues" or "Springtime in the Rockies".

There is a story about Walter Winchell which we feel we must pass on to you. One day this last summer he was working in his office in the nth seek to serve Him. We are beginning to integrate human personality with God's. Worship is the last and complete consummation of the relationship of those striving in actual life to think, live, serve, and love Him.

"Jesus Christ is the same yesterday. today and tomorrow. We ultimately become what we want to be and admire. Thinking and looking at Him every day will change our lives; we will represent Him in our lives. It is loyalty to an ideal to devote ourselves to one great personality,—to unify all in a living spirit. The heart of the universe is the self sacrificing personality. The manhood and womanhood of our being is our response to His call—Jesus Christ, the same yesterday, today, and tomorrow."

BRILLIANT SEASON IN DEBATING FORESEEN

Fifteen Debates are Scheduled, Including a Contest With the Scottish Debaters December 2.

Debating at Middlebury College for the coming year promises to be most successful, and one of the brightest seasons in the history of this activity is foreseen.

The schedule for this year, as announced by the management, calls for about fifteen contests, the first of which is scheduled for December 2 against the Scottish universities union. This is a two man team from Aberdeen and Glasgow universities respectively. In the debate with this team the question will be: Resolved that mechanical and scientific progress do not necessarily represent advance in civilization. Middlebury will uphold the negative side of the proposition.

The team will leave December 17 for its annual Boston trip. Keene Normal school, Tufts college, and Boston university will be engaged on successive evenings. Negotiations are also being made with New Hampshire university for a debate on this trip.

The annual debate with the Women's College will take place some time in February. The men's team, having suffered two defeats last season at the hands of the women, is looking forward to the coming contest with new confidence of bringing victory to the other side of the campus.

For the first time in a number of years St. Lawrence university will come to Middlebury to engage in a debate. This contest will take place in the Mead Memorial chapel about March 1.

The annual spring trip will begin about April 1. Negotiations are being made with Albany Law school, Rutgers university, New York university, New Jersey State Teachers college, and Princeton university. Of this number the first three were encountered last spring with successful results—Middlebury defeating both Albany Law school and New York university.

The Vermont state series debates will be held as usual in the spring, when both Norwich university and the University of Vermont will be encountered. This series brings the debating season to a close.

Candidates Called Together.

Eight men answered Professor Perkin's initial call for candidates for the debating team Monday afternoon. Five of those reporting have had varsity debating experience, while there were four veterans of last year who did not turn out for the beginning of activity.

Although the number of candidates reporting compares rather unfavorably with the twenty-seven at the first meeting of last year, work will start immediately.

Professor Perkins announced that there would be about one month's work in the line of general preparation, before any team selections would be made. It is intended to have study of the question sufficiently intense to enable any man trying out to take any phase of the subject upon short notice. Definite assignments were made to each person present.

Professor Perkins is having all the team work upon the preparation of a bibliography, which will be kept in the class room in lower Warner Hemicycle. He announced that men having no previous debating experience would stand little chance of making the team unless they had pronounced speaking ability.

Many Attend First Informal of Year

Seventy-five couples attended the first informal dance of the year Saturday night. It was held in the McCullough gymnasium, and the floor was unusually crowded.

A seven-piece orchestra, composed of several members of the Black Panthers, furnished the music. Chaperons were Professor and Mrs. Perley Perkins and Professor and Mrs. Raymond Barney.

MIDDLEBURY GRADS TO DINE TOMORROW

Banquet Will be Held at Berwick in Rutland for Those Attending Teachers' Convention There.

Middlebury people who are in Rutland for the meetings held in connection with the annual convention of the State Teachers' association will have an opportunity to get together at an informal dinner which is to be held promptly at 5:30 p. m., Thursday, October 9, at the Berwick Hotel. The price of the dinner is $1.25.

President Moody will speak and new movies of the College will be shown. The program will be concluded in time for the evening session of the convention.

All alumni and friends of the college who are to be in Rutland at this time are invited to attend the dinner and those receiving this notice are requested to extend this invitation to others who may be interested.

This gathering will furnish an excellent opportunity for Middlebury people who are located in Vermont to become better acquainted and to renew their contacts with the College.

First Library Reading Will be Presented Friday

The first reading of a series of seven for the college year will be held in the Abernethy room of the library, Friday, October 10, at 4:30. The reading will be given by Professor Cady.

Throughout the series, various members of the faculty will preside, choosing their own subjects. This will assure a varied and interesting program. It is planned to have each number of this series presented on the second Friday of every month.

Plans for Debating Club Are Now Nearly Completed

Priscilla March '31, manager of the debating team of the women's college, has not yet been able to arrange a definite schedule of debates for the coming season. However, plans are now being made, and the team is looking forward to more contests than in previous years.

ANCIENT MANUSCRIPT BROUGHT TO LIGHT

Edwin J. Hendrie '33, Makes Important Discovery in Sheldon Museum.

Brought to light a few days ago in Middlebury's Sheldon Museum was a yellowed manuscript containing the original laws of Middlebury College composed in 1803. With the seasons have changed the rules, regulations and religion of Vermont's oldest College.

According to the manuscript, ,one hundred thirty years ago the entire authority was vested in the President, professors and tutors, who had power to guide and chastise, "to punish students for any crime, where the penalty of the law does not exceed thirty-four cents."

Hardly capable of crime would one consider a student who could not be admitted "unless he shall be found able to read, translate, and parse Tully, Virgil and the Greek testament, and to write true Latin in prose." Yet the law continues that if any student transgress by treating professors "with vile or reproachful language—he may be fined or punished by any censure, even to expulsion", and further, "If any scholar shall assault, wound, or strike the president, or a tutor, or shall maliciously and designedly break their windows and doors, he shall be expelled."

The question of compulsory chapel attendance, twice daily, was settled once and for all by "Every undergraduate student shall be obliged to attend, upon penalty of two cents for every instance of absence, and of one cent for being tardy".

Blue laws were blue in 1803: "If any student shall profane the Lord's Day by unnecessary business, by diversion or by walking abroad; or thereon shall admit any student or stranger into his chamber, or on the preceding or following evening shall make indecent noise or disturbance, he may be punished by fine, admonition or otherwise, as the nature or demerit of the crime may require."

Countless roommates and fraternity brethren would favor the reinstallation or this rule, "No student shall sing, play on any instrument of music—during study hours." Dances could be attended only with the knowledge that a fine of fifty cents would be charged if discovered.

The manuscript was found by Edwin J. Hendrie '33, who is compiling a history of Middlebury College.

RUNNERS SELECTED FOR WILLIAMS MEET

Captain Perrin, Cox, Harwood, Ingersoll, Pratt, Young and Kimball Place in Trial Run; Team Will Run Against Williams Saturday.

A trial race to determine which seven men of the cross country squad will meet the Williams harriers next Saturday was run Friday afternoon. Twelve men entered the three-mile struggle in spite of the rather cool weather.

James Sears '34, was the outstanding performer of the race, but even his time of 18 minutes, 55 seconds was considerably slower than last year's first trial which came October 12. Sears' ineligibility on account of scholarship is especially unfortunate for the team this year due to the loss of Dalton, the ace of last year's team.

Four men practically tied for second place: Captain Perrin '31, Cox '31, Harwood '32 and Ingersoll '33. Pratt '33, Young '32 and Kimball '32, gained the remaining places on the team by finishing in the order named. Calef '31 was in line for a place, but suffered an attack 100 yards from the finish line which incapacitated him. There will be further trials as the season advances.

Coach Brown has been putting the squad through some increasingly strenuous workouts this week to get the Blue runners in good shape for competition with Williams on the 5.8-mile Middlebury course this Saturday.

Last year Middlebury ran the Purple harriers on the Williamstown course, giving them a good fast race, but losing 30-25. Williams college turns out good cross country teams continuously and this year promises to uphold the standard. Their two most outstanding veterans are Captain Goodbody and Guernsey. Harwood and Perrin of this year's team placed fourth and fifth respectively in the Williams meet last year.

The hour of the Saturday contest is not yet certain, but the meet will be run off before the beginning of the M. A. C. game. A definite announcement will be made in chapel.

PANTHER GRIDMEN TO PLAY FIRST HOME GAME OF 1930 SEASON SATURDAY AGAINST M. A. C.; BLUE IS FAVORED

Porter Field will be the scene of the first home game of the 1930 football season Saturday and will see Coach Ben H. Beck's Blue and White eleven facing a veteran team from the Massachusetts agricultural college. The Panther defeated the aggies at Amherst last year by a close 14 to 12 score and this year should find the rivals in another even battle.

Coach Gore has a veteran aggregation on hand this season and although the aggies have been whitewashed in the two opening games, the team should prove its mettle later on in the season. Led by Holmberg at quarterback, the aggie attack is powerful with running plays predominating. Holmberg has three capable backs in Wood, Sylvester and Hammond to help him out. The aggie line is experienced and well trained with Captain Foskett playing in the best form of his career at tackle.

The Middlebury team will be able to show up to far better advantage against the aggies than has been possible so far this season. It was impossible for the Panther offense to function at top speed against such rugged teams as Columbia and Williams, but with an opponent of the same class, the Blue team should give the home fans something to cheer about.

With the exception of Paul who has an injured hand, the Panther eleven will be in better shape physically than was the case against Williams and with the team facing an opponent on even terms, the spirit should be better as well. It is always hard for a team to battle against opponents who are so far superior that there is not the slightest hope of a win as has been the case thus far.

With Huntington recovering from his leg injury, it is probable that the team will be at full strength when game time arrives. Both teams have been beaten by big scores in their first two games and should be about ready to get going. A close game should result with the odds favoring Middlebury slightly.

FLAGG ADVANCES TO FINALS IN TENNIS

Volkmar and Hendrie Clash Today in Other Semi-Finals Match.

Allen Flagg '34 gained the final round in the men's tennis tournament when he defeated Robart '34 6-2, 6-0 yesterday afternoon on the semi-finals of the lower bracket.

The one-sided victory came as quite a surprise since it was expected that this match would prove one of the closest of the tournament. Flagg, who of late has been playing comparatively poor tennis, regained his stride and completely outwitted his classmate for point after point. Robart relied almost entirely on a strong backcourt game, but beautifully executed trapshots by Flagg continually drew him out of position. The winner showed good form at the net, and was able to earn many points from this position .

Flagg had previously eliminated Morize '32 by the score of 6-3, 9-7 in a third round match. The winner had little difficulty with his opponent in the first set, but with the score 5-1 against him in the second set Morize fought an uphill battle. Time after time Flagg was at match point but that one point was not to be had until the score had run to 8-7.

Volkmar advanced to the semi-finals by defeating Jennings 8-6 6-3. Jennings at times displayed some brilliant tennis, but it was the steadiness of the varsity man which carried him through the match. The first set was practically even with Volkmar breaking through the freshman's serve when the score stood 7-6. During the second set Jennings had more trouble in controlling his strokes, and Volkmar wound up the match rather easily 6-3. In the second round Jennings had displayed more experience in match play in his victory over Swett '34 by the scores of 7-5, 7-5.

Kerr '34 defeated Daland '30, a man of some varsity experience, in straight sets 6-2, 6-1. Kerr kept his opponent on the run throughout the entire

Freshmen and Sophomores to Compete in Archery

The archery classes of the physical education department of the women's college have been started, and Alice Cady '32, head of this sport, is planning Sophomore-Freshman competition to be held soon. W .A. A. archery has not yet been organized ,but Miss Young expects to make arrangements before long.

Alice Cady Elected Head

Alice Cady '32, was recently elected head of archery by the W. A. A. council. Miss Cady has been actively interested in archery since her freshman year. She has also been a mem-

Women's Hockey Now Under Way

Practice for women's hockey has already started for the year, and the first games of the season will be scheduled soon. The season will last from about October 23 till November 11.

Training rules are now in effect, and have been since Tuesday. The training rules have been made much more elastic this year than in the past, and much has been left to the discretion of the individual members. This will better insure the keeping of the training rules. This year they consist of the following things: no smoking, no candy, cake, sundaes, or nuts between meals; and three regular meals a day. The old regulation about limiting coffee and tea, sleeping eight hours, and drinking water have been done away with.

The competition this year will probably be keen, for the present sophomore class, which held the championship last year, is desirous of keeping it. The juniors and seniors are developing fine teams, and the freshman class, although untried, has many girls who have played hockey before and who will probably offer serious competition.

Audria Gardner '31, is in charge of hockey this year.

The schedule of practices for this week follows:
Sophomores, Wednesday, 3:30; Freshmen, Thursday, 3:30; Juniors and Seniors, Friday, 3:30.

INTERCOLLEGIATE SPORTS

Cross country, described by the Nebraska Alumnus as a more or less ancient sport for college athletics, has been removed from the Big Six conference sport calendar this fall in favor of milder, but still highly strenuous, running competitions.

No more will the track suited athletes labor through mud and cold over hill and dale, only to arrive in the stadium just as the football squad returns between halves and steals all the glory.

Conference coaches have decided in favor of a two-mile team race, all on the stadium track, instead of the five-mile grind over the surrounding countryside.

Six men will be used, as in the past, with five counting in the totals. Ten points will be given first place, nine for second, and so forth, with the team scoring the greatest number of points winning. In cross country one point is allowed for first, two for second and so on, with the low score winning.

Races will be run between halves of every conference football game this fall. The new plan will be tried this year and if found to be satisfactory will be used in the future.

The ninth annual coaching school at the University of North Carolina had a record enrollment last summer.

Freshman Football Team Will Open Its Season With the Clarkson Tech Frosh There, Saturday

Coach Hessler's Blue and White frosh team will meet the Clarkson Tech frosh at the latter's home field this Saturday in their initial encounter of the season.

With nine freshmen on the squad who have captained preparatory school teams before entering Middlebury, average weight that approaches the varsity, and thirty-five try-outs from which to select the first eleven, prospects for the yearling season are bright.

The first scrimmage of the year was held Saturday afternoon. The procedure was elementary and there were few opportunities for flashy displays. Coach Hessler has not selected his first string as yet, but among those who seemed particularly impressive in Saturday's scrimmage are Fallon, half back on the Massachusetts state championship team at Lynn in 1928; Riccio, fullback from the Rye team he captained his senior year; Williams, quarterback from the reputed Harrisburg academy team, where he won his letter three consective years; Roller, end from Pingry School in Elizabeth; and Ferdon, fullback from Brooklyn academy, member of the Brooklyn championship team.

Among other freshmen candidates bringing outstanding records from preparatory schools are: Wright, from Franklin academy, where his team held a championship title for four years, and he was captain in 1929; Stefaniak, four year letter man, backfield and end on the Worcester academy, preparatory school champions of New England; Dwyer, who was awarded prizes at Lake Placid high for defensive in 1928, and offensive in 1929; Simmons, two year captain of Oneonta High, N. Y.; and Jocelyn, three year regular on the Walden High, N. Y., team.

No information regarding the prospective strength of the Clarkson Tech frosh team has been forth coming except that they beat the Norwich Frosh 8-6 so Saturday's contest will have to remain a blind date as far as the Panther adherents are concerned. The Middlebury 1933 frosh team started their season off last year with a 13-0 defeat at the hands of our Saturday rivals. This year's freshman team promises to be stronger than Middlebury has seen in many a year, so it is not too much to expect that the tables will be reversed.

Women's College to Have Ladder Tennis Tournament

Interest in women's tennis is being stimulated by a ladder tournament which will get underway in a few days. Miriam Hasseltine '31, head of tennis, has decided upon this form of tournament because the short fall season will not permit the completion of a regular tournament.

The ladder tournament allows a player to challenge one whose name is above her own. The loser of the ensuing match reverts to the end of the list, from whence she can work up. It is expected that the women will receive the idea of a ladder tournament with great enthusiasm.

Elsie M. Waterman '32, is Head of Hiking Club

The Hiking club opened the season of 1930-31 with a short business meeting at Hillcrest followed by an organized hike to Chipman hill last Saturday.

Under the leadership of Elsie M. Waterman '32, assisted by Emily Smith '32, the club plans to take several hikes this fall. The program includes short trips to nearby towns and an overnight hike to Lake Pleiad.

Miss Waterman has been a member of the Hiking club for two years. She was class representative to the Women's Athletic association council her freshman year and is now a member of the council. She is a member of Alpha Xi Delta.

Miss Smith has played on her class hockey, basketball and baseball teams for two years. She was elected to All-Middlebury baseball team and was captain of sophomore class baseball. She is also a member of the MCA Cabinet.

Women's Playday to Be October 18

The women's college of Middlebury will entertain the women of St. Lawrence university and the University of Vermont at a playday October 18.

This annual event is sponsored by the Women's Athletic association, under the direction of Ruth McNulty '31, president. Exhibitions and relays will be held in the different sports, including tennis, volley ball, and hockey. More detailed information can be given later, when final plans are completed.

match and thus forced him to many errors. But in the third round the extreme steadiness of Hendrie '33 was too much for the former Williston academy star, and he was defeated in a grueling three set meatch, 6-4, 4-6, 6-2. Hendrie's ability to return anything that came on his side of the net rather upset Kerr in the third set and the sopohomore advanced to the semi-finals.

In the only other second round match, not as yet mentioned, Morize won handily from Sargent 6-2, 6-1. The varsity man of two years ago found that his opponent was erratic and lacked strategic knowledge of the game.

Before being defeated by Flagg, Robart downed Allen in straight sets 6-4, 6-3 in the third round. Allen, who was seeded number 6, played an altogether too cautious game and he found that his weak drives were very much to the liking of his opponent.

The semi-finals of the upper brackett will be played this afternoon at 3:30 Volkmar and Hendrie being the contestants. Hendrie, who has thus far caused several upsets, will find his semi-finalist a much harder man to beat. Volkmar himself depends to a good extent on steadiness for his victories while the men whom Hendrie has thus far defeated are weak against this type of game. If Volkmar is playing his usual game he should win, but only after a long hard struggle.

Whoever wins this semi-finals match will meet Flagg in the finals sometime during the last half of this week. If Flagg continues his rejuvenated play that he displayed against Robart he should win handily, but no game furnishes more upsets than tennis.

All varsity candidates for the tennis team should report every afternoon for practice until further notice. It is the plan of Coaches Adams and Cornwall to lay great stress on fall practice this year. While the tournament will give some comparisons as to the worth of the worth of the various players, it is by no means a final indication as to the personnel of the varsity team.

This summary includes only those matches which had not been previously published:

Second Round, Jennings dft. Swett 7-5, 7-5; Kerr dft. Daland 6-2, 6-1; Morize dft. Sargent 6-2, 6-1.

Quarter-finals, Volkmar dft. Jennings 8-6, 6-3; Hendrie dft. Kerr 6-4, 4-6, 6-2; Robart dft. Allen 6-4, 6-3; Flagg dft. Morize 6-3, 9-7.

Semi-finals, Flagg dft. Robart 6-2, 6-0.

and—perhaps we might mention Mrs. Carrie Nation.

While her excellent book "Woman in the Nineteenth Century" is of little importance today, she has left her mark on our national constitution in the form of the nineteenth amendment.

In this biography Miss Bell has given her subject an extremely fair, but sympathetic treatment. She has shown her weaknesses as well as her strength, for, as Mrs. Roosevelts states in the introduction, "It is not what she wrote which makes her life a vivid influence for us today, but what she was."

One of the most interesting features of the book is Mrs. Fuller's contacts with the great men of the times: Emerson, Carlyle, Hawthorne, Ruskin and others. We see her disrupting Emerson's ideals with her irrefutable arguments which as he expressed it "often ruined a whole day's work". Her visit with Carlyle is another high-point in the book.

When one closes the book there is a feeling that one has seen not an historical figure, but a real woman who was at least as human as most of us are, if not a bit more so. Therefore, we can say that we feel that fifty cents used to purchase this fascinating little book is, by all means, a safe investment.

Jeeves is back again! All Wodehouse fans will be glad to know that the doughty old valet (Beg pardon, what we meant to say was 'man's' man) is back at the old stand rescuing Berty Wooster and his friends from all sorts of embarassing situations all the way from irate swans to pierced water bottles.

The well known Sipperly, Aunt Agatha who is 'built like Albert Hall', Gwendolyn Moon, and a host of well known characters are present as well as a great many new ones to offer a hilarious afternoon's entertainment.

P. S. We strongly advise against taking the book to Sunday chapel. It is much too funny to be safe—and besides, it has a bright orange binding.

story of the New York Daily News Building when he happened to look across the street into an apartment house. It was a hot day and the windows were open. A charming red haired girl was sitting near the window reading. Suddenly the doorbell rang, and she rose, crossed the room, and admitted a young man. They talked a few minutes, then the shade was drawn. Mr. Winchell was mightily puzzled by this proceedure, but he was not baffled for he immediately took down his Manhattan Directory, discovered the number he desired and called it. After a few minutes, someone crossly demanded: "Well, what do you want?"

To which Mr. Winchell responded: "This is God speaking; ain't you two ashamed?" and hung up.

The best gag we have heard in a long time is from Oakie's picture "The Sap from Syracuse": Ginger Rogers: "Ah, so you're traveling incognito?" Oakie: "Not me, lady, I'm traveling first class." However, we still maintain that Mr. Oakie has no vocal ability what-so-ever.

ALUMNI NOTES

Alumni located in the vicinity of New York, who attended the Columbia football game last Saturday, found Baker field a rendezvous for two hundred or more Middlebury people. Nearly all generations of Middlebury students were represented at the game, from Dr. John W. Chapman of the class of 1897 to the graduates of the class of 1930 who are seeking their fortune in the metropolis.

A gratifying feature of the occasion was the number of Middlebury men who brought their sons to see Middlebury in action. Among these were P. Wilds, '02, L. F. Hovey, ex-04, A. B. King, '12, and C. S. (Casey) Jones, '15.

Warren R. Witt, '29, and his wife announce the birth of a son, born Sept. 18, 1930. Mr. Witt is now living at 144-35 Roosevelt Ave., Flushing, N. Y. At present he is working in the personal trust department at the Chase National bank in New York City.

Since 1926, when he took over the coaching of the squad, University of California football elevens under the guidance of D. M. (Nibs) Price, have won 23 games, lost 12, and tied three. Six of the defeats were in Price's first year at the university.

Plans are being made by the Vatican City to place a football team in the European competition this Fall.

Because the rules of the International Football Federation prohibit any state playing non-citizens on its teams, members of the husky Swiss Guard cannot play on the Vatican City team.

The players, therefore, are to be drawn from the fire department, the post office force and the police force.

We are probably killing the race off faster than ever in history.—Clarence Darrow.
